Autistic Pride Event

13.00-15.00

Autistic Pride Day is a pride celebration for autistic people held annually, recognising the importance of pride for autistic people. It is a chance to come together as a community, share our experiences, and support each other and help raise awareness about autism and promote inclusion of autistic people in society.

If you're Autistic, get involved and show the world how amazing you are. And if you're not Autistic, show your support and spread the word about the importance of acceptance and inclusion for autistic individuals. Autistic Pride Day is all about celebrating our unique identity and the diversity of the human experience. Let's embrace our differences, promote understanding, and make the world a more accepting and inclusive place for everyone.

We invite you to join the team for a picnic at Dale End Park in Ironbridge to celebrate Autistic Pride! You can come along in your most colourful attire and share something that you are passionate about – whether that be a piece of music, a poem, an artwork, a personal achievement/attribute, or a story.
